Resolutions.

The following opinion of the Supreme Court on the subject of the Royal Signature to Amendments to the Constitution, was received: — Misc. 145

Department of the Judiciary.
Honolulu, Dec. 6th 1892.

To the Legislature of the Hawaiian Kingdom:

The Justices of the Supreme Court have received from Your Honorable Body, the following resolution:

"Resolved that the opinion of the Supreme Court be requested on the following question, namely:

"When a proposed amendment to the Constitution has passed the Legislature at two consecutive sessions, as required by Article 82 of the Constitution, does it take effect and become incorporated in the Constitution without the signature of the Sovereign, or is such Royal signature essential to give it effect."?

Article 82 of the Constitution is as follows:
"Any amendment or amendments to this Constitution may be proposed in the Legislature and if the same shall be agreed to by a majority of the members thereof, such proposed amendment or amendments shall be entered on its journal, with the yeas and nays taken thereon, and referred to the next Legislature; which proposed amendment or amendments shall be published for three months previous to the next election of Representatives and Nobles; and if in the next Legislature such proposed amendment or amendments shall be agreed to by two-thirds of all the members of the Legislature, such amendment or amendments shall become part of the Constitution of this Kingdom."

There being no words in the Article requiring the signature of the sovereign to an amendment to the Constitution before it shall become valid, the question arises, is there anything requiring it in other parts of the Constitution, or in the Laws. We find nothing. Article 48, which provides for the Royal signature to bills, the Royal veto, and the necessary vote to pass a bill over the veto, does not apply to amendments to the Constitution. The paper embodying such a proposed amendment is not a bill. It does not require publication after it is finally passed as is the case with the laws nor a delay of ten days on the Island of Oahu and thirty days on the other islands before taking effect. (Civil Code, Sections 1. 2. 3 and 4). Although the legislative power is vested in the Sovereign and the Legislature by Article 41, this provision does not conflict with or add to Article 82. It clearly refers to the law making power alone, many other powers being exercised by the Legislature without any participation therein by the Sovereign.

We find that Article 80 of the Constitution of 1864 corresponds substantially with Article 82 of the present Constitution, with one exception, which is, that after a proposed amendment to the Constitution has passed the Legislature, it must receive the approval of the King before it can take effect as a part of the Constitution. The absence of this requirement from the present Constitution is significant of the intention of those preparing it, that the power of amending it should be solely in the Legislature.

The meaning of the Constitution is clear, as we find it in its wording, that the people alone through their Legislature shall have jurisdiction to change or add to its provisions, untrammeled and unhindered by the Sovereign.

We therefore reply to the questions submitted to us, that when a proposed amendment to the Constitution has passed the Legislature as provided in Article 82, it takes effect and becomes a part of the Constitution without the signature of the Sovereign.

Very respectfully submitted.

To the Hon. J. S. Walker.
President of the Legislative Assembly of the Kingdom.
Sir.

I return herewith to the Legislative Assembly of the Kingdom, without My assent and approval, as required by Article 48 of the Constitution, requisite to make the same a law of the Kingdom, the bill number 175 being "An Act to regulate the hours of labor of certain Government Employees." Bill 175 Veto.

My objections to the Act in question are as follows:

First. — It is My belief, the bill is too general in its terms, and will be inoperative from that cause.
Second. - That it will seriously interfere with and cripple the working of the several Executive Departments of My Government by reason of its being so general.
Third. — That My Ministers should be and are the proper administrators and directors of the working, and the only ones to make rules and regulations necessary to the proper carrying on of the business affairs and details of the Executive Branches of the Government.
Fourth. That the provision in regard to the Salaries of Government Employees does not and cannot apply to all employees, especially a portion of the Judiciary; and lastly; I deem it to be an interference upon the part of the Legislative Body of the Kingdom, with the Executive Branch thereof, and as such, is in conflict with and contrary to, the provisions of the Constitution.

Queen's Speech.

Nobles and Representatives:

More than seven months have elapsed since I opened this Assembly. During that time many changes of Cabinets have taken place. The unprecedented length of the session has involved much labor, and I congratulate you on at last having completed your arduous duties.

The Legislation which has now been placed on the Statute Books, will I trust conduce to the advancement of the material interests of the Kingdom, and it gives me pleasure to note that attempts to tamper with the currency and interfere with the established usages of Commerce have been happily averted.

My Ministers will use their best efforts to carry out your intentions as expressed in the numerous acts which have become law.

The appropriations which you have made are on a liberal scale, and it is the hope of Myself and My Constitutional advisors that the revenues of the Government will be adequate for the proper carrying out of your intentions as so expressed.

It will be My earnest endeavor to promote such Treaty relations with our Great and Friendly Neighbor, the United States of America, as may restore to Our agricultural interests that measure of prosperity which we formerly enjoyed.

It is also a source of gratification for Me to notice that liberal encouragement has been extended to some of our infant industries, and it is My hope that the results will prove the wisdom of your action.

Nobles and Representatives:

I pray the Almighty may continue to pour out upon your and our Country blessings and prosperity as heretofore.

I now declare this Legislature

Prorogued.
